A Touch of Class

From 1947 to the present, Stone Ridge has been growing and changing to meet the needs of the present time, but the special touch of class that can be seen through any girl's actions, or her smile, remains. Through a rigorous college preparatory academic program, religion studies focused on active participation in the community, as well as team sports and other activities, each girl grows into her full potential.

Several new teachers joined the faculty, bringing fresh ideas and new challenges to their students. New courses, such as Computer Literacy, and revised programs, such as that for physical education which allows the student to select a preferred activity, augment the traditional curriculum.

Careful consideration of the Student Community Governance program by All School Representative Camille Shaffer and Sr. Rogers as well as by elected class representatives resulted in several changes in the system. The new SCG program will be augmented by a faculty adviser system in which a faculty member acts as an adviser to approximately nine girls. Together they will look closely at how the school is governed in relation to their potential for active participation.

Personal growth in an atmosphere of wise freedom results in a well rounded individual, someone with that "something extra", someone with a touch of class.

Student Life

End of an Era, Beginning of a Lifetime

Graduation 1982 was a warm and hopeful ending to years of excellent education, sound guidance, and rare camaraderie. Throughout the traditional events involving graduation, there was a feeling of happiness and yet pain, a positive look towards the future and yet a sorrow at parting old ways, old friends. One of the most touching of these events was the Mother/Daughter Liturgy. During this ceremony, many tears were shed as the students, their mothers, and faculty participated in a communion of love and thanks. The luncheon following the mass was on a lighter note, providing a welcome chance to say goodbye to the faculty friends. A perfect day and setting, an insightful speaker, and individual recognitions inspired the class, bringing them together in the graduation ceremony. Throughout all of the graduation activities there was a consistent sense of warmth, care, and concern, especially from the graduating students. — Julie Chase '82

The Day of Reckoning

The weather looked to be a formidable opponent when Father/Daughter Field Day '82 began. As the girls competed for the Blue and Gold teams in such classics as the potato sack race and the three legged race, dark clouds and cool winds threatened an early end to the day. But as the fathers began to arrive, the occasion was saved when a bright sun appeared and the games continued.

It was the Day of Reckoning for the Blue and Gold teams. Having competed throughout the year in various sports and amounted points for their victories, Field Day was the final confrontation. This was the day which would determine who would win the trophy for all-around Blue/Gold competition. Every event netted valuable points for either team, and as the end of the day drew near, the anticipation mounted. When the final score was added up and the winners announced, the Blue team had won, and the Gold team came away with renewed hope for next year.

Prom

June 5, 1982

M St. Marriott
Washington, D.C.

Home by when?

Sparkling couples merged in a festive celebration signalling the end of a difficult academic year and marking the commencement of their well deserved summer vaction. When planning the Prom, the 1981/82 junior class hoped to make it "a night to remember." The elegant decor of the Marriott combined with the popular music performed by Mirage contributed to the fantasy-like hopes that Prom inspires. A disillusioned freshman complains, "My parents drove us here, both of them, — I'm so embarrassed!"

Although the attractive refreshment table consumed the interest of some, everyone tasted the infectuous magic that filled the room whether they were energetically dancing or nestled quietly in a dark corner. Special thanks to Prom Chairman Dawn Snouffer and her committee who worked so hard to give Prom that special touch of class.

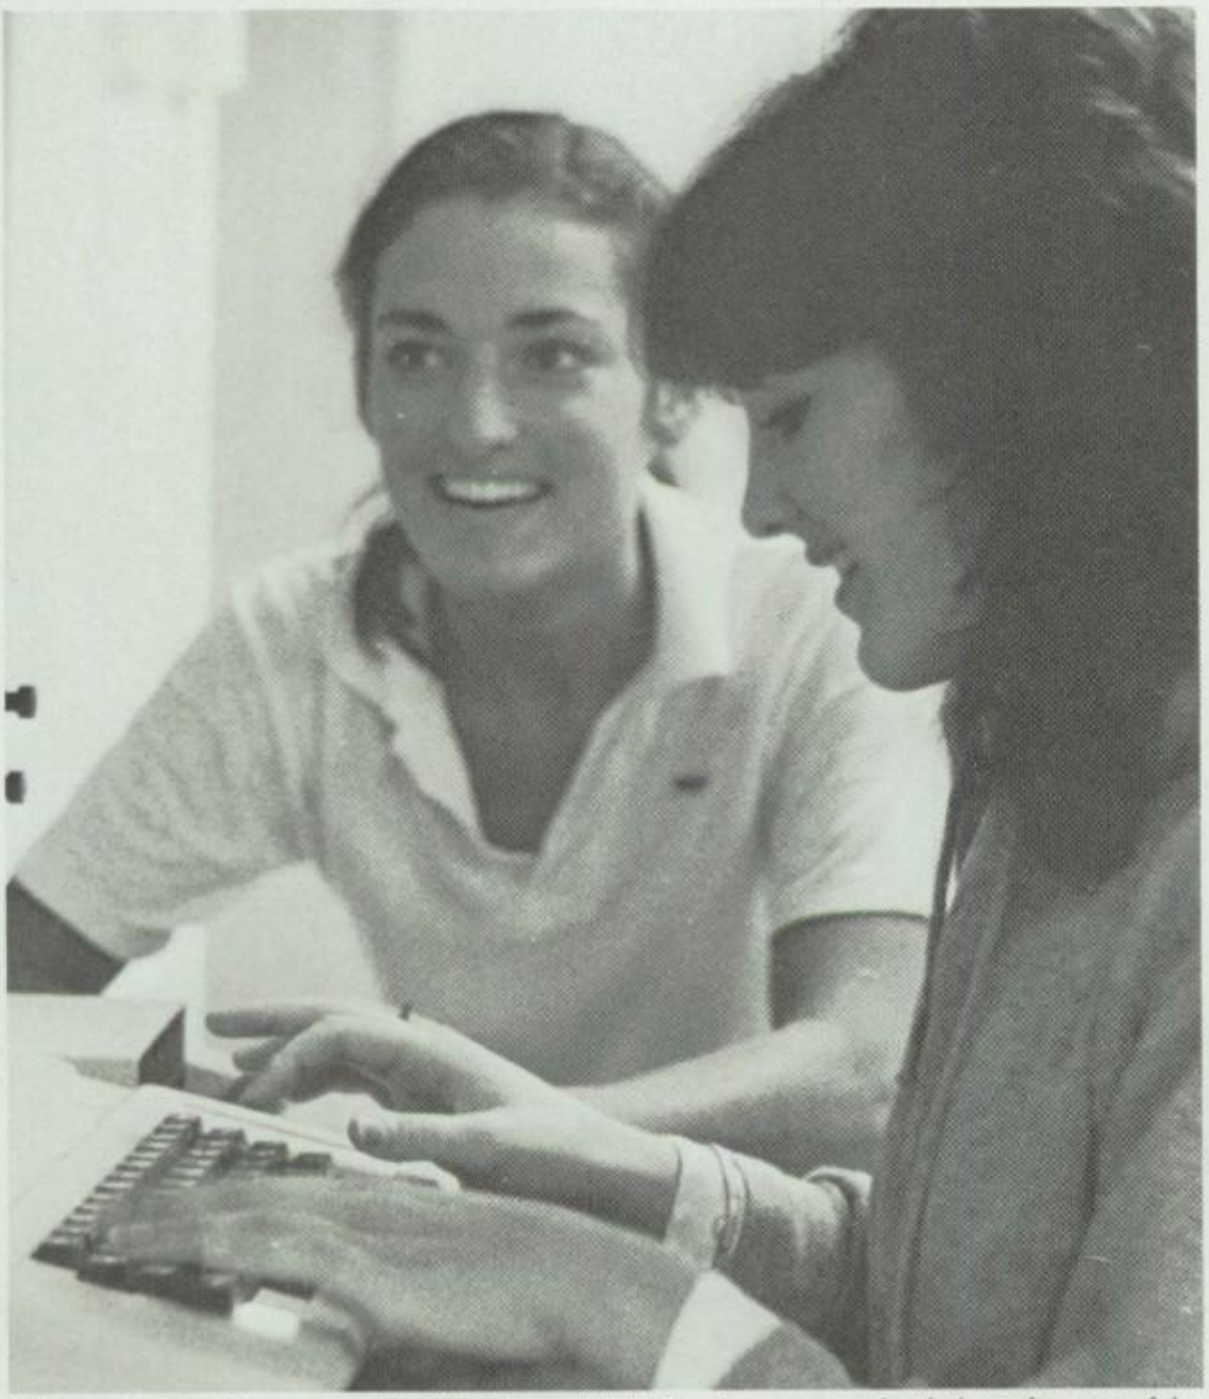
An Apple a day . . .



While writing their first program, Evy Kopsidas and Holly French are impressed with the performance of the Apple II computer.

Computer Literacy

The acquisition of several more Apple II computers provided the opportunity for students of all ages to learn how the computers work and the role they play in an increasingly complex society. During the summer teachers and staff took courses to familiarize themselves with computers. They can be used for many tasks from printing mailing labels to averaging grades and compiling lists of those averages.

Judging from the students' reactions, Mrs. Clopton's enthusiasm for the class is contagious. While the Computer Literacy class was this year restricted to seniors, other upper school students gained access to the computers through special units in their math classes. New uses are being originated daily for the computers by Mrs. Clopton and Mrs. Hamblin who handles computer instruction for the middle school. The biggest difficulty has been finding an empty computer in B-17, so popular have they become.

Courtney and Sandy play games on the computer.

Freshmen Marisa Caputo, Jackie Fangonil, and Kathleen Coon are able to use the new computers during special units in geometry class.

"When is our first vacation?"

The first day of school, for most people, conjures up images of new pencils and notebooks, clean classrooms with unfamiliar teachers, and of course, the first day of classes. At Stone Ridge, the real first day of school is not the first day of classes. At Book Buying Day, sun tanned students reminiscing about summer convene; "Welcome Back, ladies!" greets the faculty. Rows and rows of textbooks piled half way to the dining room ceiling, faculty members pulling orders, often disappearing from sight as they scurry from one pile to another, new lockers and old friends — all part of Book Buying Day.

"Come on you guys, it's only 258 days until GRADUATION!"

Ending the summer with flair

Senior Mary Nordberg helps out freshmen Chrissy Corcoran, Sheila Dempsey, and Nadine Fraiture

For the ninth and the twelfth graders, this day means even more. Many freshmen get acquainted with their senior big sisters as their first solid impressions of the upper school form. Jennifer Knepshield hostessed a "welcome" barbeque in her back yard that afternoon where the frosh learned what would be expected of them in the upcoming initiation process of Hell Week, and many also learned what an "air raid" really means. Good weather and high spirits left everyone anticipating the first day of a promising year.

Hellweek is for Freshman

Each year, a tradition is carried out during the second week of school that excites Seniors and terrifies Freshmen. The tradition is the almighty "HELLWEEK". After a week of getting used to the Upper School, the Freshmen are suddenly caught in a world of performing tasks of initiation. The trial began with Slave Day during which the Freshmen carried out the wishes of any Senior. These varied from standing in line at the Coke machines to carrying Seniors' books. Tuesday saw the Freshmen mimicing animals picked by their Big Sisters. There were examples of everything from ducks to amoebas to Australo Ramipithicus, a 14-million year old ancestor of man. The Seniors' culinary fantasies were fulfilled on Wednesday when the Freshman's assignment was to bring in a lunch for her Big Sister. Thursday was the traditional dress-up day when Freshmen were outfitted in wild costumes brought in by the Seniors. The week's end was greeted happily by the Freshmen who had survived one of the first "tests" of Upper School.

Despite these ideal purposes for having a uniform, every girl has at some time felt the need to "personalize" her indestructable Black Watch plaid kilt. Almost indestructable that is, they will melt when accidentally touched with a hot curling iron. From the flambouyant variations to the sublime, a certain sense of playful victory accompanies making it through a whole day with the contraband garment still in possession.

Weekends were made . . .

"I'm late! I'm late!" Whether it's to a "very important date", a football game, or a party, Stone Ridge girls believe in playing just as hard as they work! Monday through Friday, the most popular topic of discussion, in or out of classes, is — weekend! In a slightly different way, dating and going out in general is also discussed in homes. Moms and Dads often, (always), hold different opinions from their girls as to what would be in their best interest, (studying of course), but a compromise is almost always reached.

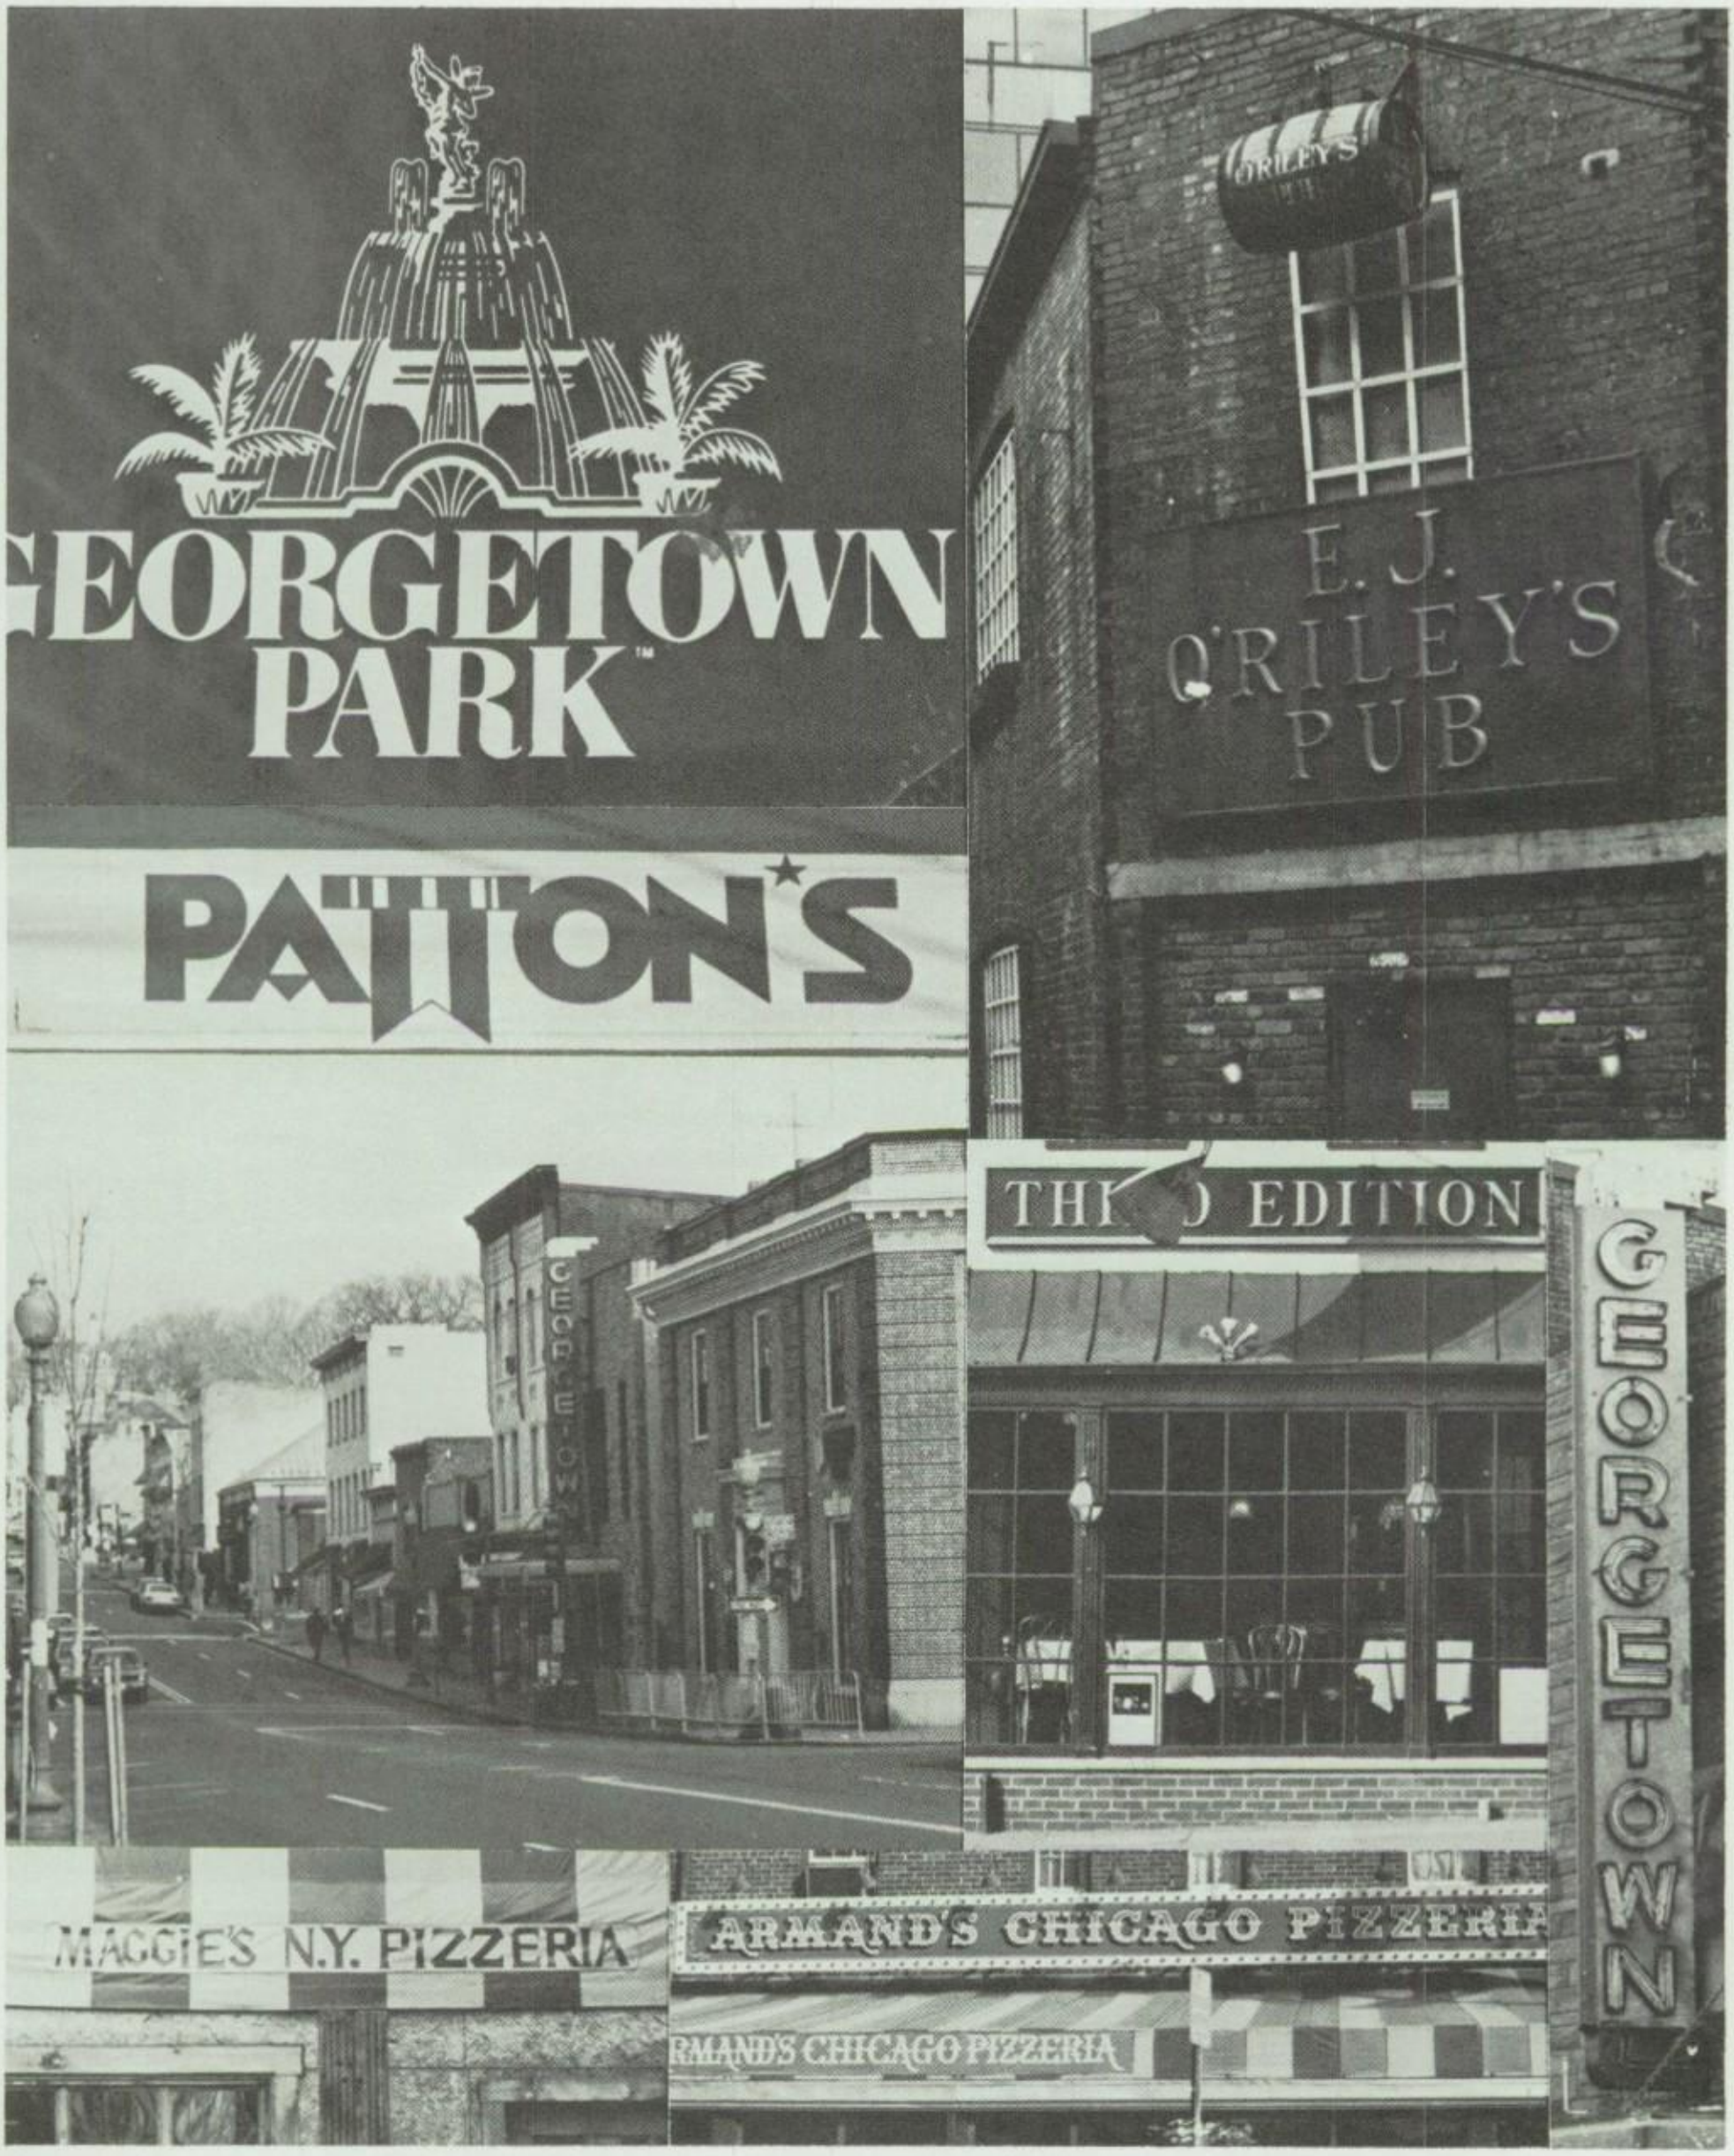
From a quiet little dinner for two, to a "chaperoned" party of 300 maybe, people's tastes vary as to what constitutes a good time. The hot spots of nearby Georgetown are always a favorite — as are movies and night time sports games like basketball.

As for curfews, well, it's kind of a game. Mom says "Be home by twelve", we say "one". She says "12:30", we say "12:45", she says "12:35, AND NO LATER". The girls end up coming home by one — pleading they couldn't remember what time was finally decided upon.

Going out — going crazy — being with friends — all necessary releases from weekday academic pressures.

Jennifer, Deidre, and Camille prepare for a night on the town.

The End Result — A Terrific Party



. . . for having fun!

Everybody needs Somebody

For the past two years Stone Ridge has been contributing to the Jesuit run organization, So Others May Eat. So Others May Eat is located on I Street in Northwest Washington. The organization provides meals for many of the hungry, needy, often destitute people in the District. S.O.M.E. offers medical and dental services provided by volunteer doctors as well as job counseling. Campus Ministry, led by Mrs. Bartfield, organizes the program so that Stone Ridge provides bag lunches one Tuesday a month and hot breakfast casseroles another Tuesday. Most contributors to S.O.M.E. are church groups. Stone Ridge is the only high school in the area consistantly contributing to this much needed program.

Blue/Gold

Mimi commands the Gold troops.

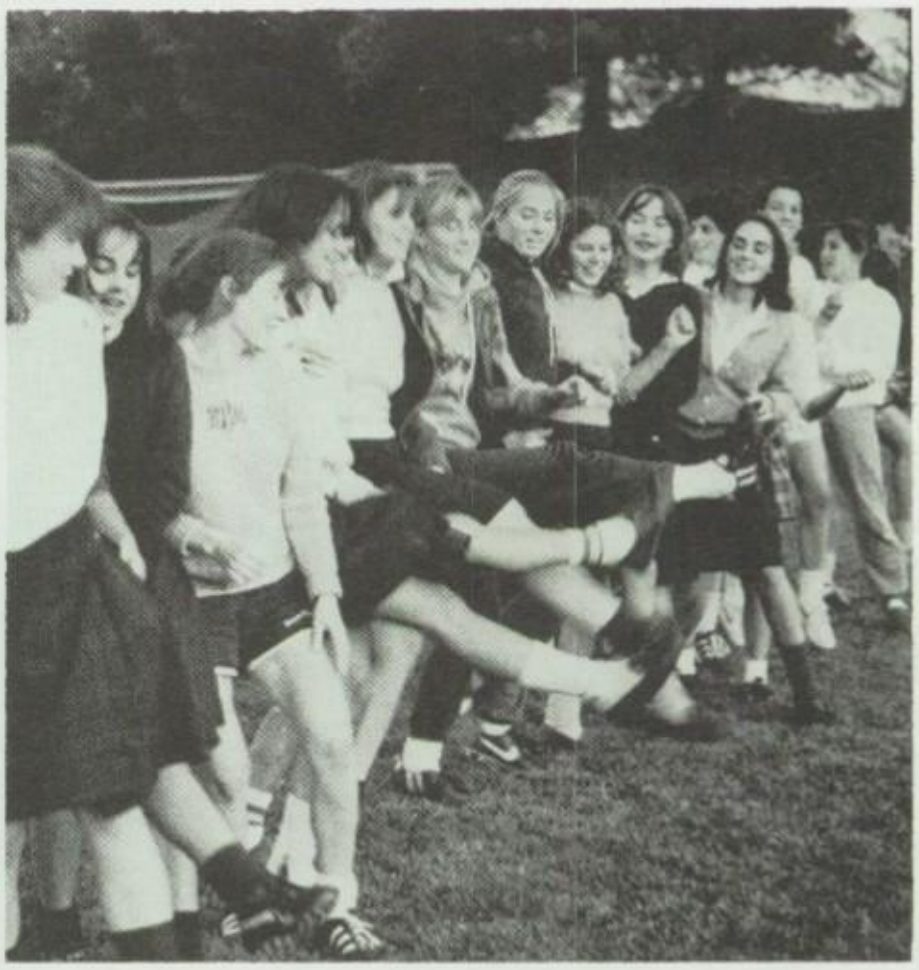
The traditional blue/gold rivalries continued this year. Each year both teams try to accumulate points.

In the fall, competitive teams challenged each other in games of soccer and hockey. Anyone and everyone is encouraged to participate. When girls were not playing they cheered on the sidelines. The hills beside the fields were decorated with students in blue and yellow garb.

Later in the year, the study center was decorated in the team colors. Each team decorated their designated half of the room. The "Royal Blue" were defeated by the "Golden Gloves" in a faculty vote on the decoration themes and presentation.

During Spirit Week, the teams faced each other again. Students were allowed to wear shirts in their team color. The games that Thursday were spirited. Everyone knew that

The Blue Team's majestic decorations



" . . . We've got the team that really rocks . . . "

"it was not if you won or lost, but how you played the game" (and which team could out-cheer the other.)

The Blue/Gold spirit is still pulsing within all the students. This year's enthusiasm proved that team zest and zeal can tucker you out, but, at least, you have fun.

Mid-Winter Blues

Stone Ridge began a new system of semesters as opposed to the traditional trimesters. As a result, a single midterm exam in January replaced the trimester exams which were given in November and February. Finals in May continue to instill frustration and anticipation in students.

The anticipation of exams is the worst aspect for many students who turn to chocolate chip cookies and diet soda for support. Despite teachers' early warnings, most studying occurs the evening before an exam. Deep into the night, pages and pages of forgotten notes viciously reappear to be studied one last time.

At 8:55 a.m. feelings of panicked urgency dominate as pens are scavenged and students squirm. Two hours later — exams are turned in with mixed euphoria and relief — and the greater of these is relief.

Christmas Concert with a Twist

The 1982 Christmas Concert disappeared in December, and in its place, Stone Ridge found a revised format entitled The Christmas Program. For the first time the two schools were separated with the Middle school program on Dec. 10 and the Upper school on Dec. 14.

The Middle school program encompassed the first trimester music students, the handbells, a tableau and Megan Knazek and her father leading the audience in prayer. Sr. Brown spoke to the families following the program.

The Upper School Program participants included Chorus, Triple Trio, Drama I and Camille and Charles Shaffer. Chorus sang old favorites and new arrangements such as Vivaldi's "Gloria" and "The Holly and The Ivy". Drama students read passages from the Gospel as Camille and her father lead the rest in prayer. The Triple Trio added spark to the Program with numbers like "Mr. Santa" and "Jingle Bell Rock".

The purpose of the new format was to emphasize family participation. Each family was asked to bring a new unwrapped toy for the needy and as these toys were collected, Mrs. Sewell, Director of Music, led the audience in carols. It was a night to remember and may become a new tradition at Stone Ridge.

"Eleven Pipers piping"

When the last bell rang on Dec. 16, classes were over and the fun was about to begin. Friday opened the annual Christmas festivities at Stone Ridge. Each school began with a mass. Then all the students headed for the gym, anxious to present their gift to the faculty. The faculty was greeted by "Do You Hear What I Hear?". The theme chosen by the Senior class was the faculty as "the light" for Stone Ridge girls. In following with the theme, Bridget Condon sang "You Light Up My Life" during the slide show. Camille Shaffer presented the faculty with a gift of place settings for the faculty room.

Following a rousing chorus of "The Twelve Days of Christmas", the students headed for their Christmas parties where they exchanged advent angel gifts, ate cookies and just had a good time. In the Upper School, the faculty presented the students with their own rendition of "Frosty the Snowman" while the Seniors came back with their interpretation of "'Twas the Night before Christmas". For a while, it seemed as if Christmas had been stolen by the Grinch and his dog. But Santa arrived uncharacteristically in a VW convertible driven by one of his "elves". Another Christmas had come to Stone Ridge.

They had been there before;
They felt no more sorrow.
The Juniors were dancing while Watching the party,
Hoping that next year's will
Be just as hardy.
But the Seniors, Oh the Seniors
Were the happiest of all
As they Gatored, they Partied and
Just had a BALL!
The Chaperones smiled and

When Cinderella was announced at the ball, royal heads turned and young gentlemen gasped in awe. When the senior class was presented at the Très Bien Ball a room full of proud parents and debonair escorts applauded for each and every new member of the Sacred Heart Alumnae. At Columbia Country Club, the annual ball was held to benefit the Agnes Barry Scholarship Fund, but this year's affair had added brilliance — the Class of '83.

For months the seniors had been preparing for the evening of February 26, 1983. All of the Metropolitan area fine stores had been visited in search of long gowns. Every rack had been ransacked. Every pattern catalog page had been turned. School day lunchtime was filled with discussion of what hairdos to try, what stores sold white gloves, and where to get shoes dyed. As the evening drew near, fathers were cleaning tuxes and mothers were busy planning the after-party. The week before the dance, senior anxieties were mounting. Girls were horrified to learn that two or three others had bought the same dress. Others worried about dates and rides.

Finally, the day arrived. All 45 of the seniors who chose to attend looked ravishing and poised in their gowns and gloves. Parents, brothers, sisters, and escorts looked on as each young lady curtsied before the room. Cocktails, dinner, and dancing at Columbia were followed by an enjoyable after-party hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barros. The ball turned out très, très bien. And, contrary to the castle-bound Cinderella, no senior lost her shoe or had her dress turn to rags at midnight.

Mission Impossible

Your mission today, if you choose to accept it, is to beat the Stone Ridge Lunch System.

For years, junior and senior Ridgies have been attempting to eat fast-food meals in a matter of a mere 35 minutes. Although this lunch period provides ample time for students to "brown bag it" in the lunchroom, the time span frustrates the average girl with a "Big Mac Attack." Many a Ridger has been defeated in her quest for a large fries and vowed never to try again. An increasing number of girls have given up Grey Store ham and cheese on rye and substituted P.B. & J. from home.

Your task entails completing the whole route to McDonald's and arriving in sixth period class before the second bell. Proceed as follows: organize you carload, sign out, meet in the parking lot, inch down Wisconsin Avenue stopping at all the red lights, park illegally at McDonald's, wait in line behind the secretary purchasing lunch for the whole office, order your Quarter Pounder, fries, and medium Tab, wait for and pay for food, get ketchup, straw, and napkins, pile back into automobile, wolf down food while sitting between three others in the back of a Chevette, drag satiated body up to the office to sign in, relocate bookbag, and run to class after bribing bellringer to delay it for 45 seconds. You will know if you have failed if you experience any of the following: filling out a lateslip, an acute case of indigestion, or loss of your lunch privilege for a week.

This is your mission.

Good luck.

Junior Varsity Soccer

Saved best for last!

Junior varsity soccer players held their own against several strong opponents. Single point losses early in the season to Visitation, Holy Child, and Sidwell Friends indicated that the team possessed strong fundamental skills that would enable them to defeat Foxcroft, Bullis, and Holton later in the season. Winning three out of the last four games, Junior varsity ended the season triumphantly with a record of three wins, five losses.

Power in Tournament

With a combination of new and old players, soccer season began with an air of anxious anticipation. Hot afternoons full of drills and running conditioned muscles and reflexes dulled by summer. After a preliminary loss to Visitation, Varsity defeated Oakcrest and GDS in exciting home games. Early in the season, team members were forced to compensate for the loss of Mary Nordberg due to repeated leg injuries. Close losses to Holy Child and Madeira were followed by strong victories over Riverdale Baptist and Foxcroft schools. With a season record of 5-5-2, Stone Ridge entered the Independent School League Soccer Tournament. Tournament record of 3-1-1 combined with the season record to make a total of 8 wins, 6 losses, and 3 ties.

Junior Varsity Basketball

As a young team, the JV proficiently demonstrated in game situations skills acquired at practice. Defeated by Visitation, JV went on to beat Sidwell Friends and cleared 27 points over Oakcrest. "Having some practices without Varsity has made us a stronger team because Miss Wait could work with us individually. We've learned to play more smoothly together that way," commented Jennifer Farrel. Excellent defense prevented Notre Dame in Middleburg from scoring until the fourth quarter giving JV their third victory to date. Seniors lead team

After a close loss to Visitation, Varsity gators conquered Immaculate Conception, Sidwell Friends, Oakcrest, and Riverdale Baptist schools. The powerful team relied on several years of varsity experience possessed by most members. Holton-Arms challenged the gators in the closest match of the season to date. "We were behind the whole time," explained team captain Susie Boyd, "but then right at the end we got ahead and won the game 43-41. It was a great feeling — all the spectators in the Holton gym got quiet all of a sudden!" Stone Ridge experienced a heart-breaking loss to Holy Child by one point in overtime. At mid-season, Varsity had a triumphant record of 6 wins and 2 losses.

Halfway through the season with a record of 1 win and 4 losses, JV volleyball continued to play with enthusiasm and determination. Despite close losses to Madeira and Holton-Arms, JV came back to defeat Holy Child winning two out of two games. Holton contended with half a team of Follansbee's, Karen, Lynn, and Pam, in the two team second confrontation of the season. Bump-set-spike-WIN!

With only two returning varsity players, varsity members learned quickly to play effectively as a team. Doubts of the new team's potential vanished in the light of victory over Madeira and rival Holton-Arms. Varsity gators trampled over Holy Child and Notre Dame in succession. Eager for revenge, Holton proved to be a tough opponent. Stone Ridge took the first game by a clear margin but Holton came from behind to win the second game by several points. With spectators spilling out of the overstuffed volleyball court, Stone Ridge and Holton battled for control of the decisive game. All the hours of practice, of endless drills and maddening suicides paid off as Cindy Domalski served the final point, SR-15, Holton-13. "We are all very supportive of each other — and that is just as important to us as our winning record." — Jasmin Nawab, team captain.

In April, the school was visited by five educators from Sacred Heart Schools around the country. They came to share with faculty and administration, students, trustees, parents and alumnae a critical reflection on how the Sacred Heart philosophy of education is being lived out at Stone Ridge. Each school in the Sacred Heart Network is visited every five years as a means of accountability to the Society of the Sacred Heart. It is to the Board of Trustees in each school that the Society entrusts its mission of education, and so it is our Board who is responsible to make sure that this philosophy, "THE GOALS AND CRITERIA", is operative at Stone Ridge.

During the months of January, February and March, each segment of the Stone Ridge community was engaged in preparation for that visit. This preparation consisted of looking at how we are actually educating in the light of the philosophy, and reflecting on why we have chosen to do what we do. With the visiting educators, we had the opportunity to consider the ideal of Sacred Heart education, and then begin to move forward at Stone Ridge, making changes where we see they are needed. — Thomas Harkiws

Some Books are meant to be Video Taped

Eleanor Heginbotham
American Literature

The Stone Ridge English Department, along with IBM and AT&T, has been pushed into the age of high technology. With the acquisition of a video tape recorder, students can now watch literary works in action. The recent trend in television has been towards producing classics written by such authors as Dickens, Hardy, and Shakespeare. Because the school can now tape these programs and watch them during classes, the students now have an added insight into their reading assignments. The largest undertaking to date has been the Royal Shakespeare Theatre's production of Nicholas Nickleby by Charles Dickens. Following guidelines for educational use, this program can be used in classes.

From now on, students can watch as well as read their books. So when mothers tell their SR daughters to do their homework, we can turn on the TV and do exactly as they say.

1. All of the following are causes of Stone Ridge students' anxiety attacks except;
   A. Memorizing dates and events that occured even before the development of Western Civilization.
   B. Trying to understand the effects of "the mob" while still trying to avoid Mr. Johnson's wayward pointer.
   C. Attempting, 2 minutes before the bell for American History to find an "approved" article for an analytical essay that 60 other people haven't selected.
   D. Lunch
2. Which of these are characteristics of the legendary Mrs. Koss:
   A) "Open a window, girls. It's too stuffy in here!" (Said on freezing January day)
   B) A battered briefcase, flamboyant wardrobe and a strong feminist viewpoint.
   C) A dedication to her students even at the cost of her own private lunchtime.
   D) A passion for high-volumed filmstrips and firey debates.
   E) All of the above
3. Which is the least important aspect of senior history classes:
   A) Mr. Leibstone's matching (?) socks.
   B) Keeping track of the "success" of Mr. Leibstone's jokes
   C) Monday Morning coffee & doughnut breaks in Political Science
   D) "Homework" in our "Textbooks"

All kidding aside, we don't mean to scare off any future history buffs. As we have learned, "Those who do not study history are doomed to repeat it."

It was a winning season. This was not reflected, perhaps, in the season record, but it was clearly reflected in the words and attitudes of the team. Winning, according to the Middle School hockey team, is not just a score. It is an experience. The team effort, the sportsmanship, the friendships: all are part of winning — the most important part. According to Dorothy Tomaszewski, it "gave the seventh and eighth grades something in common," giving them a chance to come closer together as friends. It was, to her, a "good experience," and to Valeria Balfour, "We learned to work more as a team." In this respect the hockey team improved over the season, and with a lot of team spirit and effort, they all came out winners.

Proper nutrition is imperative for athletes in training.

"There are places I'll remember all my life,
though some have changed,
some forever, not for better.
Some have gone and some remain,
Though I know I'll never lose affection for people and things that went before,
I know I'll often stop and think about them and in my life I'll love them more."

— SPECTACULAR —

"Remember, it's my life and I'll do what I want,
It's my life and I'll think what I want,
Hurt me somehow, tell me I'm wrong,
But someday I'll treat you real fine!"

Memories

Memories

What lies before you, and what lies behind you
Are tiny matters compared to what lies
Within you.
